

Weddings are Expensive...Your Video Doesn't Need to Be

Did You Know?

Post-production on videos is time-consuming and can drive up the cost of services. Because Ron is able to edit your video in real-time, as the event takes place, post-production is limited to adding music and features like picture-in-picture. This lets him have a faster turnaround time than that of traditional video production. If your marriage ceremony is important to you...as the most important part of your wedding day, you will want to have this amazing memory captured on film so you and your family can remember exactly who was there....and most importantly, hear those special vows you made to your new spouse.

With gas and food prices on the rise, managing your expenses is more important than ever. At R.S.V.P. we believe that having a copy of your wedding day on film is too important to forgo. Because of this, Ron is willing to work with whatever wedding budget you have. It's no longer a question of whether you should choose a photographer or videographer for your ceremony and reception because both are important!

Ron will work with you to put together a custom package that works with your budget and meets your needs. Call today to arrange a meeting to customize a package and price that works for you! We understand that you are looking for a solid price or range from this page so you can compare it with other videographers you may be considering. We ask that you please don't be put off by our unique pricing policy.

We truly want to create a beautiful video of your wedding day for you, no matter how tight your budget may be. Ron loves to film weddings for the "ACC" (Artistic Creative Challenge) of it and filming weddings is his passion! Get Beautiful Results...fast!

You can have your finished wedding DVD delivered to your home in a fraction of the time it takes when video is produced via traditional means...
